We acknowledge with appreciation contributions received from the following Alumni:

ALUMNI NOTES

Esther Anderson (Ph.D. 1932), Assistant Professor of Geography at the University of Nebraska, reports many activities for the past year. She travelled in Great Smoky National Park and attended the World Power Conference at Washington, D. C. in the Summer of 1936. She also visited the Norris Power Project at Norris, Tennessee. This Summer she will attend the A. A. S. meeting in Denver in June, and will present a paper at the third annual session of the Association of Pacific Coast Geographers. She is working with Dr. Lackey on a textbook "Regional Geography of the World" and has been invited to give a paper in the Economic Geography section at the International Geographical Congress in Amsterdam in 1938.

Rollin S. Atwood (Ph.D. 1928) continues as Professor of Geography at the University of Florida, Gainesville.

Nels A. Bengtson (Ph.D. 1927), Chairman of the Department of Geography at the University of Nebraska, will give courses in Economic Geography at the Columbia University Summer School this year. He is Geographical Editor for the Prentice-Hall Publishing Co., New York, and the author of the chapter on Mineral Fuels in the recently published volume, Our Natural Resources and their Conservation.

Robert G. Buzzard (Ph.D. 1925) President of Eastern State Teachers College, Charleston, Illinois, is overseeing the construction of a new gymnasium at the college, and planning for a new science building, in which Geography will have a prominent place, to be begun in the Fall.

J. Herbert Buggy (Ph.D. 1930) is with the Department of Geology, at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

J. Norman Carls (Ph.D. 1935) is instructor at Oregon Normal School, Monmouth, Oregon.

E. Ray Casto (Ph.D. 1926) is at Emory and Henry College, Emory, Va.

Mary C. Clune (Ph.D. 1922) heads the Department of Social Studies at the Technical High School, Springfield, Mass. In the Summer of 1936 she spent two months in the Mediterranean countries, traveling from Spain to Syria and Palestine.

George B. Cressey (Ph.D. 1931), Chairman of the Department of Geology and Geography at Syracuse University, expects to spend the Summer and Autumn in geographic studies in Siberia and Turkestan. Following a series of geographical lectures at Harvard in the Spring, he visited Clark and conducted a seminar on the Geography of China.

Floyd F. Cunningham (Ph.D. 1930) is head of the Department of Geography at the State Teachers College, Florence, Alabama. He is also Professor of Commerce at the recently established University of Alabama Center at Decatur, Alabama. At the Syracuse meeting in December, 1936, he was elected Secretary of the National Council of Geography Teachers.

Gordon Darkenwald (Ph. D. 1934) spent more than twelve months traveling and studying in Europe, before going to Hunter College, New York, in the Fall of 1935 to be Instructor in the Department of Geology and Geography.

Sigismond Diettrich (Ph.D. Clark, 1931; D.Sc. University of Budapest, 1936) is Assistant Professor of Economic Geography at the University of Florida, Gainesville.

Sidney E. Ekblaw (Ph.D. 1934) writes from Kansas City, Missouri, where he is Instructor in Geography at the University of Kansas City, that "he has lots of plans but is teaching too heavy a schedule to carry them out." The plans include several articles and two research projects. He expects to teach at the Summer School, and then take a trip to Arizona in August. The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. Ekblaw extend to them deep sympathy in the loss of their small daughter, who passed away on April 6th, after a brief illness.

Franklin C. Erickson (Ph.D. 1935) taught at the University of South Carolina in 1935-36, and has been at the University of North Carolina during the past year.

Edwin J. Foscue (Ph.D. 1931), Associate Professor of Geography at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, has traveled widely in the past few years, visiting the American Tropics in 1932, 1933, and 1934, Alaska in 1933, and Europe in 1935.

Otis W. Freeman (Ph.D. 1931) is head of the Department of Physical Science, and Professor of Geography at Eastern Washington College of Education, Cheney, Washington. He is now working on an "Elements of Geography" for Prentice-Hall. His numerous publications during the year 1936 are cited in the bibliography in this issue of the MONADNOCK.

J. Sullivan Gibson (Ph.D. 1934) is still with the T.V.A. He was married to Miss Gordia Lee Kirby in Knoxville, Tennessee, on April 28, 1937. They spent their honeymoon on a trip to his old home in Texas.

Bert Hudgins (Ph.D. 1930) is geographer at Wayne University, Detroit.

Preston James (Ph.D. 1923) Professor of Geography at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, has varied plans for the coming Summer. He will be in charge of the round table on the distribution of people in South America at the Institute of Foreign Relations, Harris Institute, University of Chicago, in the latter part of June; will teach at the summer session of the University of Wisconsin, and after the close of the session on August 6th will carry on field study on soil erosion and occupation in the Cumberland Plateau for the Soil Conservation Service. He is Secretary of the Association of American Geographers, Secretary of the Conference of Latin American Studies of the Social Science Research Council, and on the committee on areas of international concern, of the National Research Council. Several of his articles were also published in 1936.

Minnie E. Lemaire (Ph.D. 1935) of the Department of Geography at State Teachers College, La Crosse, Wisconsin, plans a trip to the British Isles after the close of Summer School in August.

Carol Y. Mason, who received her Ph.D. in 1936, is continuing as Assistant Professor of Geography and Geology at Milwaukee-Downer College. She attended the University of Chicago during the summer quarter in 1936. At present she is working on new courses in Conservation and National and Regional Planning.

Wallace R. McConnell (Ph.D. 1925) is geographer at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Harley Milstead (Ph.D. 1933) is still at State Teachers College, Upper Montclair, New Jersey.

John L. Page (Ph.D. 1929) Assistant Professor of Geography at the University of Illinois, spent the Summer of 1936 at Norman, Oklahoma, and will teach this Summer at the University of Illinois. A year ago he was elected an alumnus member of Phi Beta Kappa, University of Oklahoma Chapter. The Illinois State Planning Commission is publishing his "Climatology of Kaskaskia Valley," and he has recently finished "The Climatology of the Peten, Guatemala" for the Carnegie Institution.

George H. Primmer (Ph.D. 1933) head of the Department of Geography, Duluth State Teachers College, traveled with his family in the West last Summer. He has written several articles which have appeared during the past year, and has lectured to several groups in Duluth.

Julia M. Shipman (Ph.D. 1928) will teach next year at Ginling College, Nanking, China. She will sail in July and travel in Japan en route to China.

Earl B. Shaw (Ph.D. 1933) head of the Department of Geography at the State Teachers College in Worcester, made a trip around the world in the Summer of 1936, and plans further travel for the coming Summer.

J. E. Switzer (Ph.D. 1923) is Professor of Geography at the University of Indiana at Bloomington. He expects to teach at their summer session.

George Tatham (Ph.D. 1934) is teaching at University College, Hull, England.

Eugene Van Cleef (Ph.D. 1926) continues as professor of Geography at Ohio State University, Columbus. He was recently elected associate editor of Baltic and Scandinavian Countries, the publication of the Baltic Institute, Gdynia, Poland.

Willem Van Royen (Ph.D. 1928) Assistant Professor of Geography at the University of Nebraska, was invited to participate in the International Symposium on Early Man, conducted by the Philadelphia Academy of Science, March 17-20, 1937. He plans to do physiographic work in connection with archaeological work in the Spring. Articles of his have appeared in American Antiquity, Social Forces, and the Bulletin of the American Meteorological Society in the past year.

Carl J. Blomfield (M.A. 1934) is Associate Professor of Geography and Geology at Southeastern Teachers College, Durant, Oklahoma. Last Summer he made an 8000 mile trip through Mexico and up the eastern coast to Canada. He will be married to Gertrude Grady (M.A. 1935) this Summer, and they will travel through the Gaspé and eastern Canada, going to Durant in the Fall.

Katheryne Thomas Whittemore (Ph.D. 1936) heads the Department of Geography at the State Teachers College, Buffalo, New York.

Phil E. Church (M.A. 1932) is to receive his Ph.D. at Clark in June. During the Summer he will teach Oceanographic Meteorology at the Friday Harbor Oceanographic Laboratories before returning to his work as instructor in Geography and Meteorology at the University of Washington, Seattle. He has written several articles and has given a number of lectures during the past year.

George S. Corfield (M.A. 1931) is dean of men at the State Teachers College, Duluth. He has spoken to several associations in Duluth on South American subjects recently.

Marion B. Forsythe (M.A. 1927) is teaching Geography at the State Normal School in Potsdam, New York.

Guilbert R. Graham (M.A. 1931) is at present teaching high school Geography in Zanesville, Ohio.

Edna M. Gueffroy (M.A. 1927) of the Department of Geography at Illinois State Normal University was a member of Dr. Jones' Caribbean Cruise in the Summer of 1936. During the coming year she plans to study at the University of Washington. During the last two years she has given many lectures on Alaska and on the Caribbean.

Isabelle K. Hart (M.A. 1927) is at the State Normal School, Oswego, New York, as associate head of the Science Department and Dean of Women.

George F. Howe (M.A. 1924) Dean of Men and Professor of Geography at the Teachers College, New Britain, Connecticut, has been conducting an extension course and Summer School field trips.

Paul Huffington (M.A. 1929) continues his work at State Normal School, Bridgewater, Mass.

Harry K. Hutter (M.A. 1930) is Professor of Geography at Northern State Teachers College, Aberdeen, South Dakota. He is co-author of "Our South Dakota," now in press.

Lois R. Keller (M.A. 1926) who is teaching at the Shaker Heights Junior High School, Cleveland, plans to attend Summer School in the West. She has been making a series of Ohio scholarship tests in Geography under the direction of the State Department of Education.

Anne Kennedy (M.A. 1935) is working in an office in Worcester.

Kathleen Kennedy (M.A. 1934) is teaching in a Worcester Junior High School.

Walter E. Kirkendall (M.A. 1935) has been at the University of Colorado, Boulder, substituting in the Department of Geology and Geography for Louis Quam, who has been studying at Clark this year. He spent the Summer of 1936 as ranger naturalist at Glacier National Park. He plans to return to Clark in September to work toward the Doctor's degree.

Neva McDavitt (M.A. 1921) has been on a leave of absence from her position at State Normal University, Normal, Illinois, during the past year. She has been studying at Columbia University, doing part of her work in Geography and part in Education.

George R. Means (M.A. 1932) is now Executive Secretary of Rotary International, at Chicago.

Adelphia Mitchell (M.A. 1928) is attending the University of Nebraska as a graduate student in Geography. During the Summer of 1936 she was a member of the Summer School staff of the University of Nebraska. This Summer she plans to do research in the library at Austin, Texas, on "Geographic Relations in Literature of the Southwest."

Leonard W. Packard (M.A. 1926) heads the Department of Geography at the Teachers College of the City of Boston.

J. Etzel Percy (M.A. 1932) is teaching Geography at the University of Pennsylvania.

Rafael Pico (M.A. 1934) is still teaching at the University of Puerto Rico, and plans to return to Clark in February, 1938.

Victor E. Pitkin (M.A. 1931) is Chairman of the Social Studies Department at the High School, Reading, Mass. He is studying at the Graduate School of Education, Harvard University, part time and summers. He directed a class at the Boston University Elementary Teachers Conference, and was a member of the panel at the Boston University Secondary Conference on extra-curricular activities. During 1936 he conducted an adult education forum on Foreign Affairs in Reading, where he is also President of the Reading Teachers Club. He has published several articles recently. Donald Herridge Pitkin was born on February 14, 1936.

Ina Cullom Robertson (M.A. 1924) of the department of Geography, State Teachers College, Valley City, North Dakota, will conduct a study tour, sponsored by her department, to the Pacific Coast by way of national parks and points of interest throughout the west, this Summer. With Harold B. Addicott (M.A. 1928) of the State Teachers College, Mayville, North Dakota, she is co-author of "The Geography of North Dakota," recently published.

Virginia Mae Robinson (M.A. 1934) has been teaching 7th grade Geography during the past year in Westfield, New Jersey.

Joseph R. Schwendeman (M.A. 1927) is at Moorhead State Teachers College, Moorhead, Minn.

Marjorie Shank (M.A. 1923) combines the duties of registrar and associate professor of Geography at Southern Illinois Normal University, Carbondale, Illinois.

Angelika Siewers (M.A. 1936) writes from Sorrento, Italy, where she has been spending a vacation, that she has started to work on a Doctor's dissertation in Geography under Professor Troll, the subject being the cattle industry of the United States. She hopes to complete the work by the end of 1938. She has prepared an article and map for publication in the Koloniale Rundschau on the political geography of the Caribbean countries.

Anna Eaves Simmons (M.A. 1935) is supervisor of Geography at the State Teachers College, Fitchburg, Mass. She traveled last Summer through the Appalachians and the Middle West, and plans this Summer an extended trip into the Rockies. She has lectured on glacial geology to C.C.C. groups, and has conducted a mineralogy course for older girl scouts.

Robert Simpson (M.A. 1933) teaches in the Department of Geology and Geography at the University of Rochester, Rochester, New York. He passed his Doctor's prelims at Clark last Fall.

Winifred Smith (M.A. 1934) is teaching in the Junior High School at Sherrill, New York. She holds the position formerly held by Catherine Roberts.

Althea Stautz (M.A. 1934) is teaching in the High School at Devil's Lake, North Dakota. Her recent travels have been in the Far West.

Phelps N. Swett (M.A. 1925) continues as geographer at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont.

Anthony J. West (M.A. 1929) is a member of the faculty of the State Normal School, Brockport, New York in the Department of Geography.

Rose Zeller (M.A. 1930) is teaching in the Department of Geography at Eastern State Teachers College, Charleston, Illinois.

Catherine Roberts, who is at Cortland Normal School, Cortland, New York, plans trips to the Gaspé and southeastern Canada, and through Pennsylvania and neighboring states this Summer. She has been appointed Chairman of the Committee on Secondary School Geography of the New York State Geographical Society and is Chairman of the committee for revision of the Social Studies program for the practice school of Cortland Normal. She has given several lectures to district conferences of teachers on "The Place of Social Studies in the Elementary School Curriculum."

Hans Boesch, who was a student here in 1934-35, has received his Ph.D. in Geology from the University of Zurich, Switzerland. He has accepted a position with the British Oil Company in Syria and Iraq, with headquarters at Mosul, and expects to be in the Near East three or four years.

ALUMNI RETURN

Agnes Allen (M.A. 1934) returned to Clark in April to complete work for her doctorate. Her thesis is entitled "The Sequence of Human Occupancy in the Middle Rio Verde Valley, Arizona." In June, after Commencement, she will return to her work as Professor of Geography and Education at the State Teachers College in Flagstaff, Arizona.

Elizabeth Gregory (M.A. 1930) who is teaching at Keene Normal School, Keene, New Hampshire, spent several weeks at Clark this Spring assisting in the preparation of the manual for Dr. Jones' Economic Geography. She attended summer school at Clark last Summer, and travelled in the Middle West for several weeks.

Ruben L. Parson (M.A. 1934) spent a few months at Clark before leaving for Jackson, Mississippi, where he received an appointment as Land Planner for the State of Mississippi. For the past two years he has been with the Land Planning division of the Tennessee Valley Authority and has also been connected with the Soil Conservation Service.

Walter W. Ristow, who was a student here in 1933-35, also returned to complete his dissertation, on Orangeburg County, South Carolina. He has been teaching at Eastern Washington College of Education, Cheney, Washington, and will return for the Summer Session following Commencement at Clark.

A. Russell Oliver, Assistant Professor of Geography at the University of North Dakota, came to Clark in March for his final examinations for the doctorate. He has given a series of radio talks on "North Dakota Weather and Climate." His future plans are indefinite.

Carleton P. Barnes (Ph.D. 1929) spent a few days in Worcester this Spring. He is senior Agricultural Economist with the Department of Agriculture in Washington, and has published several studies in his field recently.

NEWS OF LAST YEAR'S WORKROOM GROUP

Lloyd D. Black (M.A. 1936) taught during the Winter session at Monmouth State Teachers College, Monmouth, Oregon. He will teach at the Summer School at Ypsilanti, Michigan, State Normal College, this Summer. Last Summer he was instructor at Culver Military Academy, Indiana.

William B. Briery (M.A. 1936) is at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., where he is working with Dr. Earl B. McKinley on a geography of the incidence and distribution of diseases in the western hemisphere. He plans to study at the Clark Summer School this Summer.

Maria Sanjurjo spent last Summer at her home in Vigo, Spain. She has been teaching at New Jersey College for Women, New Brunswick.

Lester Trueblood (M.A. 1936) is Instructor in Geography at Judson College, Rangoon, Burma. On the way out there last Summer he visited in Hawaii, Japan, and China.

A number of alumni have not returned the questionnaire cards which were sent to them and in the past few years have not sent any information as to their whereabouts and activities. We print below their names, and the addresses which we have on file for them, in the hope that any mistakes will be corrected and more up-to-date information supplied.

SEMINARS

In addition to the three regular seminars scheduled for the second semester, the Graduate School of Geography had the pleasure of two special meetings. On February 12th, Dr. George B. Cressey of Syracuse University presented an illustrated survey of the "Geographical Foundations of China," and on April 23rd Dr. Ralph H. Brown, on sabbatical leave from the University of Minnesota, spoke on the research work which he is carrying on in historical geography of the Atlantic Seaboard.

The problem "Puerto Rico—Colony or Republic" was considered in the seminar held on February 24th, under the direction of Dr. C. F. Jones. Papers presenting the situation were given and a discussion led by Dr. Jones followed. William Neal presented "Puerto Rico in 1898"; Asbjorn Fause spoke on "The Trade of Puerto Rico—the Economic Backbone of the United States-Puerto Rican Relations"; Merle Meyers reviewed "The Political Situation and Present Condition"; and James I. Culbert concluded with "What Independence would mean to Puerto Rico."

The March meeting, held jointly with the Department of History and International Relations, March 17th, dealt with another colonial problem of the United States, "Problems of Philippine Independence." Dr. Van Valkenburg introduced the subject. Warren Nystrom presented a paper on "The Geographic Background"; Carl Stotz discussed "The Economic Aspects of the Situation"; while William Keenlyside and Forrest Pogue of the Department of History and International Relations considered the "Internal Problems of Philippine Independence" and the "International Aspects" in the order named. The discussion following the presentation of the various papers was led by Dr. Blakeslee.

The last seminar of the year, under the direction of Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, Jr., was held on April 29th and was concerned with "Shoreline Studies." The talks presented dealt with some of the problems associated with the main topic. "Submarine Valleys" were discussed by Louis Quam; "Changes in Sea Level" by Richard Logan; "Carolina Bays" by David Lin; and "Coral Reefs" by Irene Wray. Carl Berg concluded with a number of reviews of recent books on physiographic studies.

Two interesting lectures were given during the course of the semester, one by Ansel Hall on "Archeological Explorations in Monument Valley" and the other by William LaVarre entitled "Gold, Diamonds, and Orchids."

FACULTY NOTES

President Atwood will spend much of his time in Worcester this summer to complete work on his "Physiography of North America" and to teach a course in the Geography of Education at the Clark University summer session. He hopes to be able to go to Gloucester once a week where his family will be spending the summer.

Dr. Atwood, Jr., will also remain in Worcester this summer to teach in summer school and write reports on field studies of previous seasons.

Dr. Clarence F. Jones is planning to spend most of the summer in writing. He will teach one course in the Summer School, in Economic Geography. At present, he is making tentative plans for conducting a party to Guatemala from August 10 to August 29th. His family will spend the summer in Illinois.

Dr. S. Van Valkenburg will be on the staff of the Institute of Far Eastern Studies at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor this Summer. In addition to his teaching at the Institute, he will give two lectures at Wayne University, Detroit. He will also continue work on his textbook in Political Geography.

Dr. W. E. Ekblaw spent the first two weeks of May travelling in the Middle West. He will be on the staff of the Summer School, and will work on a book which he is preparing for the publishers.

SURPRISE

On Saturday, May the eighth, at a very nice tea in the Libbey Library, Thomas W. Chamberlin announced his marriage on December 26, 1936, to Ruby Stallings of Charleston, Illinois.

For two days before the party, the entire workroom was in a state of turmoil over the mysterious unsigned invitations, and speculation was directed toward several of the romantically inclined.

The announcement was made by means of a large, decorated box, from which some twenty ribbons were hanging. When extracted, the ribbons proved to be attached to a small bag, which contained a card in the shape of a cat, and the important information. So the cat was out of the bag, and Tommy has now taken his rightful place in the ranks of the workroom's married men.
